

Women & Epilepsy

IBE launches websites in 9 LANGUAGES for women with epilepsy

Last December, we launched IBE's English-language website, dedicated to women with epilepsy, focussing on the results of a survey of almost 1,000 women across Europe.

Since completing the English language site, we have been translating the content to a number of other languages and are delighted to announce the launch of new websites in Czech, Dutch, English, French, Georgian, German, Italian, Polish, Russian and Spanish. The websites are the perfect place to find answers to questions such as:

- Why is epilepsy different for women?
- What are hormones and how do they affect epilepsy?
- How does puberty affect epilepsy?
- Will epilepsy affect my sex life?
- Epilepsy and contraception
- Epilepsy and valproate
- Accidental or unplanned pregnancy
- What you need to know to have the healthiest pregnancy possible
- Risks to the foetus of an unmanaged pregnancy in a woman with epilepsy

There is also a section developed especially for doctors and health-care providers.

Please help us promote the sites to your members. Promotional flyers are available on request in English, German, Italian and Russian. If you would like the flyer in another language, we are happy to help – you just need to send us with the translated text.

SURVEY

We are also looking for your help in identifying any information gaps that may exist in the website content and have set up a short 2-minute survey for this purpose. The views and suggestions that you share with us will also be invaluable to us in our plans to scale up our Women & Epilepsy programme to cover other regions and make it a truly global initiative. So, please ask your colleagues and members to take the survey, which you can find on this link: <https://womenandepilepsy.org/survey/>.

The survey is available in Croatian, Czech, Dutch, English, French, Georgian, German, Italian, Polish, Russian and Spanish.

Your views and those of your members are vital to us and your help is most valuable.

With many thanks.
